Call for Abstracts InSRI and CEAR
May 11, 2016 – Atlanta, GA, USA

Critical Perspectives on Impulsivity Research from Behavioral Economics and Vice Versa

The Program Committee strongly encourages students, trainees, and early career scientists to submit abstracts for poster presentations. Abstracts (300 word maximum) should be submitted by April 18, 2016 to: secretary@impulsivity.org using the abstract template.

For more information about the meeting, see: http://www.impulsivity.org/meetings

The 2016 International Society for Research on Impulsivity (InSRI) and the Center for the Economic Analysis of Risk (CEAR) will bring together researchers studying impulsivity from neuropsychiatric and behavioral economic perspectives.

The meeting will convene on May 11 in Atlanta, GA at the Hyatt Regency Atlanta (265 Peachtree Street NE).

Confirmed Speakers include:
George Ainslie, M.D., Coatesville Veterans Affairs Medical Center
Warren Bickel, Ph.D., Virginia Tech
Patricia Conrod, Ph.D., Université de Montréal, Montréal
Adam Goodie, Ph.D., University of Georgia
Glenn Harrison, Ph.D., Georgia State University